LOYOLA

AND TODAY

Let's dance

Loyola opened its doors once again to students this past August 24, 1983. And best of all, the school year was ushered in with two highly successful parties. The first was held two days after the opening day of class when the Commuter Services office along many other organizations on campus, hosted a pre-New Year's Eve party at Hardee's. Apparently no one minded the early Auld Lang Syne spirit since over 200 students came to enjoy the event.

Just one month later the party spirit moved off campus when the New Orleans Steamboat President left its Canal Street dock with about 200 Loyola students who rocked to the music of New Orleans' homebred group, The Top Cats.

then . . .

Sixty years ago Greek life took hold on campus and began to grow and thrive. Today little has changed as fraternities like Beggars, (Beta Epsilon Gamma Gamma Alpha Rho Sigma), ADG (Alpha Delta Gamma) continue to be an integral part of the Loyola experience.

New to the experience is Sigma Phi Epsilon. Chartered in November 1983, the "Sig Eps" are on their way to becoming the likes of their predecessors.

then . . .

For more than 20 years, two sororities have been promoting with a strong desire- academic, social and religious enhancement of both the University and its students: Theta Phi Alpha and Phi Phi Phi.

This year marks the 25th anniversary for the first sorority on the Loyola Campus. Theta Phi Alpha was founded in 1959 and it was the first Panhellenic Conference sorority at Loyola.

Phi Phi Phi was first conceived during the Christmas season of 1956 by Mary Ann Reising, Sylvia Patron, and Nancy Cummings. Their reality was to have a sorority that will accept a unique direction of its members-themselves. They are a strength on a sisterhood of diversity, and a foundation of tradition and individual self-expression.

Without a doubt, the Bahamas, the Virgin Islands, Akumal and Colorado were the places that got more than one Loyolan thinking of that nostalgic hit song . . .

Those were the days

Loyola gets a rocky mountain high

Tillies, $76 for food, a pack of gum for half a buck, Daddy Johns, accidents on the T-Bar lift, snow fights inside the condo, and other unlikely places . . . all describe the, "Rocky Mountain High" 50 Loyolans discovered in January at Breckenridge, Colorado.

Talent is a tradition at Loyola with plays . . .

. . . in 1958

. . . in 1963

. . . in 1957

One talent Loyola displayed in its plays throughout the years was a flair for diversity. One year comedy reigned, the next music, and then it was time for a little mental anguish as was the case in 1957 with the production of "Oedipus."

In the more recent past the 1983 production of "Celebration" pulled the theatrical thread of music, comedy, drama and dancing together and created a most sucessful play.

and Arts Festivals . . .

When it comes to talent, Loyola's got it . . . and sometimes it just doesn't changed. In 1957, the audience loved the musicians who played the horns. By 1983 the instruments and the reaction to the music were still the same. About all that changed were the outfits the players arrived in.

Dancing is yet another talent displayed by Loyola students in Arts Festivals and Talent Shows. Although various types of dancing come and go in popularity, one thing is for certain, students love to exhibit their talents.

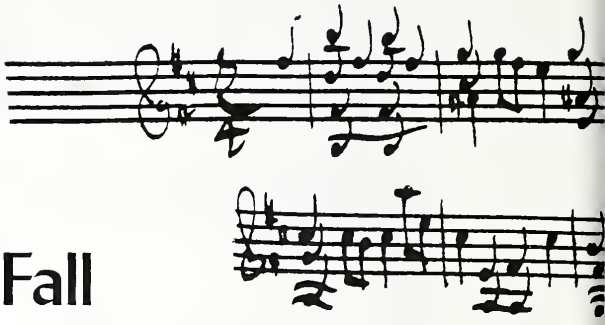
and International Student Week.

One talent displayed at Loyola in the spring of '84 wasn't by University students but rather guests from Latin America. This troop of dancers dished out a healthy portion of Latino dancing. From the crowd's reaction the show was an enjoyable endeavor.

In 1963, construction workers still had a few piles of Mother Earth to negotiate before construction of the Joseph Danna Center, the new Student Union, could begin . . .

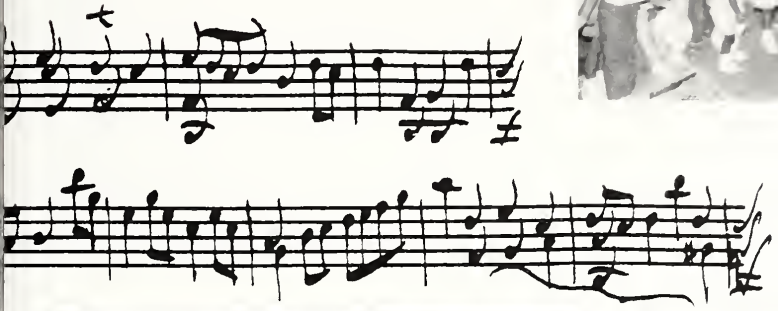
. . . 20 years later in the fall of '83, students younger than the union celebrated its 20th anniversary and its first birthday.

Although the Spring and Fall fests both drew large crowds, in the Fall of '83 and the Spring of '84, each offered quite different qualities. In the Fall, the Sheiks excited the crowds with a daylight concert . . .



Fall Fest

Spring Fest



. . . A few months later, the great Irma Thomas split the night air with some of her inimitable, soulful notes that New Orleanians have come to easily recognize. One thing is certain, everybody passed one good time, may oui cheré.

So easy is it for us to take for granted things that we are given or that we are fortunate enough to experience, and to overlook the hard work of others that makes these things possible.

It is to these people, the ones pictured on the previous pages, and the many other faculty and staff members whom are not pictured, that we wish to dedicate this book, for if not for their hard work and sincere love and dedication, the experience of Loyola would not be possible for us as it is today.

STUDENT LIFE

ORGANIZATIONS

Alpha Delta Gamma

The Epsilon Chapter of Alpha Delta Gamma national Catholic social fraternity entered its 51st year at Loyola University.

ADG scored scholatically this year with one of its members, John Killilea taking the Charles H. Bailey Alpha Delta Gamma Award.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

Parties in the park, campaigning for Dave Treen and working in a home for battered children were some of the activities Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity did this past year.

Phi Phi Phi

Phi Phi Phi celebrated its 25th year on the St. Charles Avenue campus with the induction of a new decision-to go Delta.

Among activities for Phi Phi Phi this year were frat mixers and lots of fund-raisers.

Pledge season saw car washes and the pledge-member party and skit.

Phi Phi Phi Delta Gamma is strength on a sisterhood of diversity, unity on a foundation of tradition and individual self-expression. It is a special kind of closeness that is felt and shared without words.

Alpha Chi Omega

Obtaining its charter this past year, Alpha Chi Omega began a very busy life on campus.

Its activities began with its induction ceremony. The sorority's activities began with its induction ceremony, which was followed by a retreat. The group also sponsored childrens' day and painted letters on cups at one Spring T.G.I.F. to raise money for its treasury.

Delta Sigma Pi

The aim of Delta Sigma Pi is to try to promote a closer affiliation between the commercial world and commerce students, and produce higher ethics for the civil and common welfare of the community. Delta Sigma Pi stands for scholarship, social activity, and the association of students for their mutual advancement.

Loyola Union

The Loyola Union is sometimes refered to as the essential programming arm of the Joseph A. Danna Center. The organization sponsors balanced programs of cultural, social, recreational, and educational nature for the university as well as the New Orleans community. The organization is credited for the Spring and Fall fests that students enjoy every year.

Right: This past year the union sponsored a Mardi Gras parade for which a king and queen were elected. Students voted for the two monarchs with pennies which were given to the Sickle Cell Anemia Research Foundation. This year's reign was given to Diedre Travis and John Killilea.

Black Student Union

Michael Johnson
President

The Black Student Union strives to represent and articulate adequately the needs of black students. The organization pushes for academic achievement and excellence, provides guidence through leadership, provides cultural enhancement from a black perspective and participates actively in the community. The BSU conducts programs such as its annual cocktail party, an essay contest for high school graduating seniors, a political forum, and a National guest speaker.

International Student Affairs

Internation Student Affairs is the center of information for all international students on campus. Its main objective is to help students become adjusted to university life through cultural, language, academic and personal matters. The International Student Association, a social and cultural organization that sponsers many on campus events, is also part of the Office of International Student Affairs.

Circle K

The 1983-84 Circle K members.

Building unity through service rightfully holds true for the University's only national service fraternity, Circle K.

The organization sponsers various activities on campus including the traditional lighting of the Christmas tree in the Danna Center Lounge. Circle K also went international with its service, when members spent Thanksgiving holidays with those in need in Satillo, Mexico.

Blue Key

Qualifications for Blue Key National Honor Society are rigid. To become a member, a student must posses a high moral character, outstanding leadership ability, scholastic proficiency, and must have rendered service to the University. This year Blue Key assisted with the Louisiana Special Olympics' track and field competitions in City Park.

The 1983-84 Blue Key National Honor Society.

Liaisons

1983-84 Members: Standing- Steve Hacala, David Cramer, Bruce Jupiter, Chris Trosclair, John Lotspiech, Mike Shea, Lorenzo Lorenzo, Brad Trask. Kneeling- Victoria Livingston, Monica Rivers, Laurie Kramer, Rachelle DesVaux, Elizabeth Eckholdt, Laura McBride, Diane Finnerty, Maura Vezina, Maria Ribando.

Helping freshman is what being a Loyola Liaison is all about. Their duties include conducting tours to prospective students, inducting new students at Lagniappe, assisting in Exploration '84 and promoting the Loyola image.

All in all a Liaison is someone who knows and understands the problems of incoming students and helps them overcome these problems as they become better aquainted with the University.

LUCAP is a cohesive organization that offers students an opportunity to grow and meet other people. Besides volunteer work LUCAP offers semesterly retreats, workshops, and parties for personal reflection and fun.

The Loyola University Community Action Program

Consortium - Student Social Work

1983-84 Consortium-Student Social Work.

People helping people; three words that describe the function of the Consortium of Social Work Students. Made up of students from Xavier, Dominican and Loyola the C.S.W. students work to become aware of the problems confronting the New Orleans Community.

Ballet

Students interested in the art of dance may opt to take ballet for credit. This class has the chance to show off its talent by participating in arts festivals such as the one in the Fall of 1983. (right)

. . . and a bit silly, too.

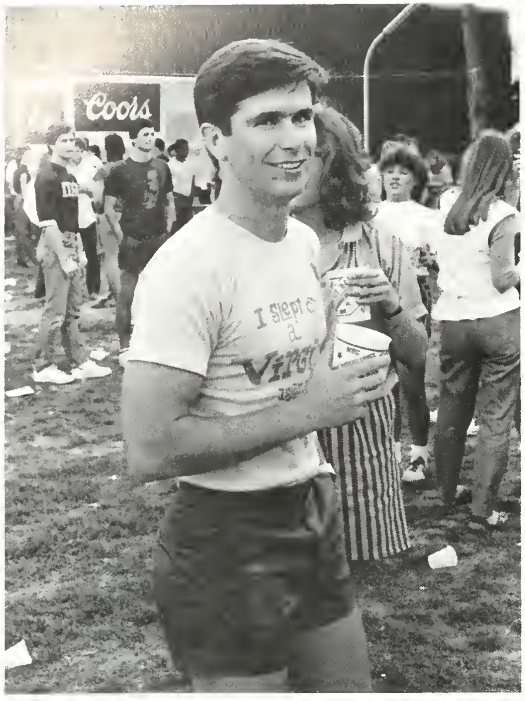
Life



Friday has always been a welcome day for Loyola students, and along with Friday comes a celebration. For decades now, students have taken advantage of Fridays as the time to leave the worries of school behind and party.

In the early years of T.G.I.F., activities would be planned and entertainment would be provided by the music school such as in the year 1957 pictured below, left. More recently, the task of organizing a T.G.I.F. celebration involves providing live music from local bands. The band "Keystone" made a great hit with students for many of the '83-'84 T.G.I.F. celebrations.

Fun in the Wolf Pub

The Wolf Pub is the site of many Loyola student activities, particularly parties and T.G.I.F.'s. This is also the place a student can grab a hot pizza, cold beer and a bit of gossip with his friends.

Prior to the construction of the Danna Center students use to gather in the cafeteria in the recreation room which was located in Marquette Hall. There they held many of the same activities students hold today in the Wolf Pub/Wolf Den.

Expansion has always been a keynote at Loyola

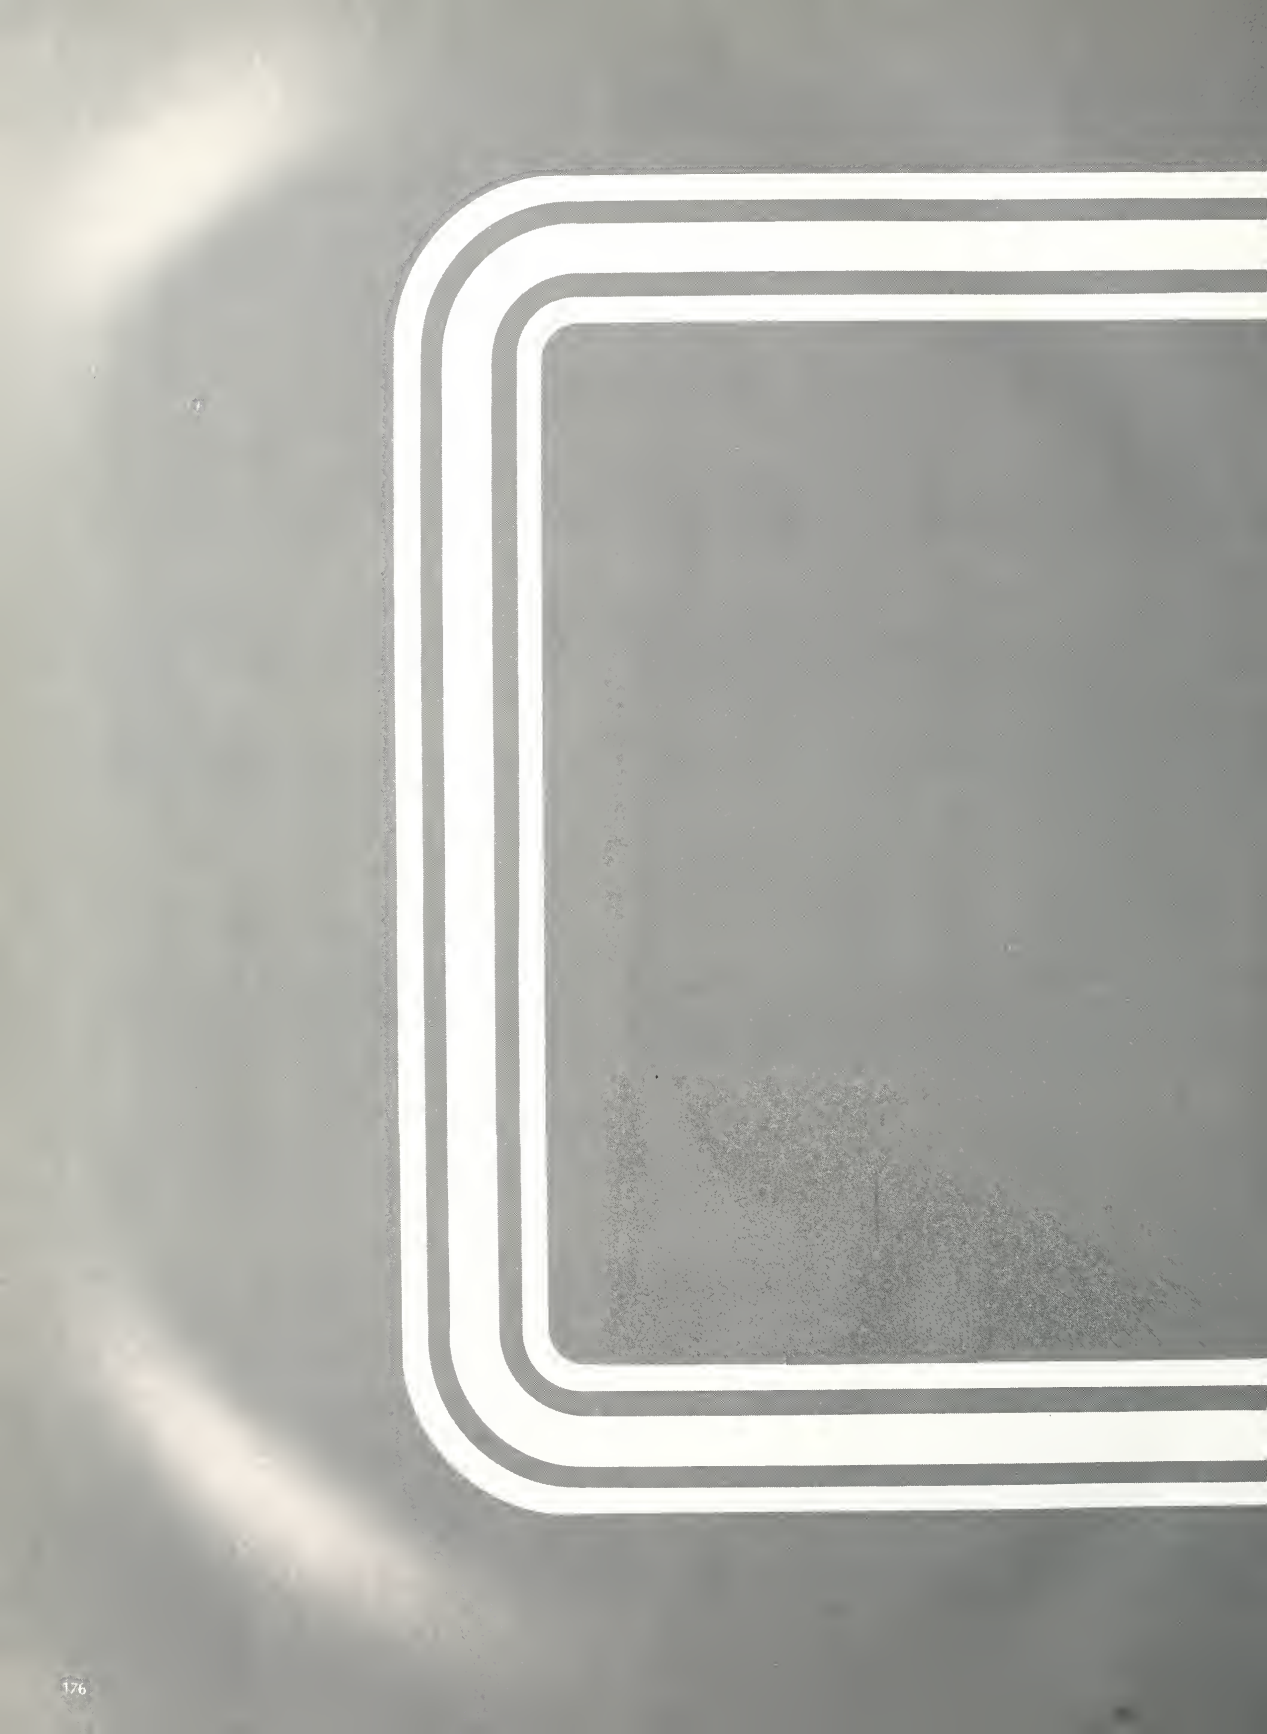
Since Loyola established itself at its present St. Charles Avenue location in 1912, it has continuously been improving and expanding its campus.

The expansion included the building of a student center (opposite page, top), a men's dormitory (opposite page, bottom), and its newest addition-The Communications/Music Complex (this page).



SPORTS

Did you know Loyola had . . .

The life of football as a team-sport at Loyola spanned between the years of 1912, when the school opened at its present location, and 1939.

During this time the team celebrated many wins and in 1926 the team was — no kidding now — undefeated (center photo).

An effort to revive the team was made in 1966 (top photo). However, this effort was very short lived. After 1969, football was no longer part of Loyola.

Basketball was the sport to outlast all of the others at Loyola. The university maintained a basketball team from 1912 up through the early 1970's. During this time the team brought home many trophies and represented the university numerous times in Sugar Bowl games.

a baseball team . . .

Loyola maintained a baseball team almost as long as it did a basketball team. Not only did this team endure through the years, but it held its reputation as a winning team. During this time, the teams prided themselves on not having had a losing season since WWII.

The addition of a track team to Loyola sports did not come until the late 1940's and lasted only until 1959. Although its life on campus was short, it was well lived. This team produced several Olympic qualifiers, three of whom won medals.

An attempt to revive the track team was made in 1965, but ultimately failed after only a one-year trial period.

The previous pages of this book are an attempt to capture the essence of the 1983-84 school year and to represent the university through its faculty, students, activities and organizations.

We hope that we have done an adequate job and we would like to thank the people who have helped make it possible.

We extend a special thanks to President Carter for backing The Wolf and to Dr. Lloyd Chiasson, our advisor, for standing behind us when we most needed his support. We would also like to thank Dr. Larry Lorenz and the Communications Department for their support of this book, and Joan Tolhurst, Ruth Largay and Russ Cresson of University Relations for the useful information and photographs they supplied. A special thanks must also go to Craig Bogar, director of the Rec Center, for providing the intramural photographs.

We would also like to extend our sincere thanks to all who aided us in any way in the completion of this book, and to apologize if anyone has gone unmentioned.

We hope you enjoy your yearbook!!!
